

“Learning is fun and life is worth it.”

I favor active learning and critical thinking in my classroom. Whether in-person or remotely, I am big on how classroom instruction can be better structured to enable students build a strong network of transferable knowledges. I vary my teaching approach to cater to the unique learning styles of individual students. Communication, diligence, and enthusiasm are crucial elements that constitute my teaching persona. Effective communication helps me relate to my students and get the message across in an inclusive learning space that promotes mutual respect and understanding. In my leadership position as an instructor, I do the work and encourage my students to do the same. Enthusiasm has an electrifying effect on students; teachers who show high sense of passion in what they do elicit equal measure of interest in the subject from their students. I fill my classroom with an aura of optimism, as I lead my students to think critically and write effectively. I hope that students can leverage to their own advantage the enabling environment that my class provides and make the best of their learning experience during our time together.